

Devon Prep Alumnus Earns a Fulbright Fellowship

Congratulations to Nate Stauffer '12 who recently won a Fulbright Fellowship to teach English in under-resourced Malaysian high schools next year. Additionally, because the program is run by the Department of State, he will be serving as an American Ambassador at international conferences and events throughout the year.

The University of Pennsylvania graduate is hoping to share his interests in the performing arts with his students as a means of cultural exchange, and also to research how culturally-enforced gender roles affect student experiences in Malaysian classrooms.

As Nate prepares for his trip abroad, he reflected on his Devon Prep education and how it has impacted his life after Devon. "I find myself once again humbled and filled with gratitude for the education Devon Prep provided for me," he said. "While most schools simply provide knowledge for their students, Devon cultivated my curiosity, resilience, desire to give back to the world and profound respect for people of all cultures. These exact qualities are what drove me to seek out and apply for this unique international service opportunity, and I firmly believe they will be instrumental tools for me during my time abroad."
